Docket No. 2003-540

August 26, 2003

JOHN DAVIS
Appeal of Consumer Assistance Division
Decision #2003-15435 Regarding Unitel, Inc.

ORDER

WELCH, Chairman; DIAMOND and REISHUS, Commissioners

I. SUMMARY

In this Order, we uphold the decision of the Consumer Assistance Division (CAD) and direct Unitel to credit its customer John Davis for calls he made within Unitel's premium calling area for which Unitel charged him toll rates.

II. BACKGROUND

On July 9, 2003, Mr. Davis contacted CAD concerning a billing dispute he had with Unitel. Mr. Davis complained that he has been billed toll charges for calls he made to the 299 exchange in Bangor. The Bangor exchange is within Unitel's premium calling area for Newburgh customers and therefore there should be no additional charges beyond the monthly premium calling charge. The 299 number Mr. Davis called is assigned to U.S. Cellular. Unitel responded that they have not reprogrammed their switch to recognize 299 as a local Bangor exchange because AT&T¹ never requested it nor has AT&T entered into the necessary contractual arrangements with Unitel.

On April 25, 2003, CAD issued its decision. It found that the Bangor exchange is part of Unitel's premium calling area. Since Mr. Davis subscribes to premium calling, there should be no toll charges assessed on any calls he makes to the Bangor exchange. CAD directed Unitel to credit Mr. Davis for any past and future charges incurred when calling the 299 exchange.

On May 2, 2003, Unitel appealed the decision. Unitel asserts that it has not identified the 299 NXX assigned for AT&T to the Bangor rate center as a local NXX within Unitel's switch because AT&T² has never requested Unitel to do so. It states that a written agreement for the exchange of traffic is necessary to resolve questions about how the traffic is to be routed. According to Unitel, such good faith negotiations are required by the TelAct and the TelAct only requires it to deliver this type of traffic to its boundary. Unitel further maintains that the question of who will be responsible to pay any tandem transit charges beyond the boundary must also be resolved. It asks that the Commission open a docket to consider these generic issues.

¹ Unitel in its responses to CAD and in its appeal assumed that the 299 calls were terminating with an AT&T customer. In fact, U.S. Cellular has obtained some 299 numbers from the number pool so the traffic in question are calls Mr. Davis made to a U.S. Cellular number.

² In a phone call to Unitel following the filing of its appeal, it stated that neither had U.S. Cellular made these arrangements.

III. DECISION

We have directed our staff to meet with Unitel and other local exchange carriers to determine if a generic problem exists based on the issues raised by Unitel. In the meantime, however, Unitel has an obligation to abide by our orders, rules, and its own tariffs. In 1994, pursuant to Chapter 204, Basic Service Calling Area Rule, the Commission ordered Unitel to include the Bangor exchange in Newburgh's premium calling area. Public Utilities Commission, Proposed Rate Schedules in Compliance with Basic-Service Calling Area Rules (Chapter 204), August 22, 1994 Order at 2. Unitel must take whatever steps are necessary to ensure that its customers in the Newburgh exchange who subscribe to the premium calling area plan are not charged toll rates for calls made to the Bangor exchange. We also agree with CAD's determination that Unitel should credit Mr. Davis for any toll charges incurred on calls to the 299 exchange. We find that the underlying disagreement Unitel may have with U.S. Cellular does not relieve it from complying with Commission orders, rules and its own tariffs. Therefore, we uphold CAD's decision and direct staff to meet with Unitel to address the generic issues raised in its appeal.
